Peter Stein Named President of Fox RPM Corp.

BOSTON, MA (MAY 17, 2011) Fox RPM Corp. is pleased to announce that Peter Stein has been named president of the company. In his new role, Stein will focus on driving the growth of Fox as a premier provider of project management services, through the expansion of Fox’s service offerings and the further development of Fox’s national footprint.

Stein’s responsibility also extends to the day-to-day operations of the company, ensuring that Fox maintains the highest quality of service delivery in the industry.

Gretchen Fox, founder and past president, will assume the position of chief executive officer and will continue to maintain client relationships and be involved in strategic decisions for the company.

“From the very beginning of his tenure with Fox, Peter has demonstrated incredible enthusiasm and energy for what we do and for moving us forward,” said Fox, CEO. “I am confident he will take the company to new heights while maintaining that which has made us such an admired company. I am delighted Peter will be leading us into a new era of growth and prosperity. ”
